

U.S. Department of Education's 21st Annual National Meeting on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse and Violence Prevention in Higher Education

Harvesting Ideas for Safe and Healthy Campuses: Effective Strategies Built on Research and Practice

OCTOBER 18-21, 2007 • DOUBLETREE HOTEL & EXECUTIVE MEETING CENTER • OMAHA, NEBRASKA

So, you've never been to the National Meeting?

If that is the case this message is for you. In many ways the first-timer is the most important attendee at the Meeting. The new professional, the campus veteran with new responsibilities, and the community practitioner looking for partners in prevention – all of you bring fresh ideas and the different perspectives that future progress requires.

So come to the National Meeting and while you are there, remember these tips for making the most of this valuable experience.

- Bring a supply of business cards with you.
- Participate! Introduce yourself, share ideas.
- Be involved, take notes, and ask questions.
- Join others for lunch or dinner.
- Use a highlighter in the program book: you'll know where you're going before you have to be there.
- Complete the evaluations, because what you think is important.
- Bring your new knowledge back home.
- Stay in touch with your colleagues.

You will come away with valuable knowledge and renewed energy for the important work that you do.

So come to Omaha, Nebraska for the U.S. Department of Education's 21st Annual National Meeting on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse and Violence Prevention in Higher Education.
