

U.S. Department of Education's 22nd Annual National Meeting on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse and Violence Prevention in Higher Education

ENSURING THE SAFETY AND
WELL-BEING OF OUR STUDENTS:

Widening the Lens of Prevention

NOVEMBER 16-19, 2008 • CROWNE PLAZA ST. PAUL-RIVERFRONT • ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA

First Time Attending the National Meeting?

If that is the case this message is for you! In many ways the first-timer is the most important attendee at the Meeting. The new professional, the campus veteran with new responsibilities, and the community practitioner looking for partners in prevention – all of you bring fresh ideas and the different perspectives that future progress requires.

So come to the National Meeting and while you're there, remember these tips for making the most of this valuable experience.

- Bring a supply of business cards.
- Participate! Introduce yourself, share ideas, and ask questions.
- Connect with others in your state by attending your region's Network Roundtable.
- Join others for a meal.
- Use a highlighter in the program book: you'll know where you're going before you have to be there.
- Complete the evaluations, because what you think is important.
- Bring your new knowledge back home.
- Stay in touch with your colleagues.
